PAPER CHASE

It takes a combination of many various elements to run a school like the Prep. Needless to say, some of these elements are more important than others. The Prep could surely survive with one less activity or sport, and it might even be better without some of these things, like the cafeteria food. There are, however, a few items without which the school could not function.

Paper is one of the simplest yet most important of these items. Without it, we would have no place from which to extract knowledge or to write down what we learn. Teachers could not keep track of their students and coaches would have no place to write and describe their strategies. Without it, you would not be reading this yearbook now and the activities in this school, along with those in many other institutions, would grind to a halt.

Due to these reasons, the yearbook staff has chosen the "Paper Chase" as our theme, in order to show the many different ways that paper affects our lives. We hope that as you read through this publication, which itself is perhaps the greatest example of our theme, you will begin to understand what an important roll (of) paper plays in all our lives.

A DEDICATION

MR. JEROME TAYLOR

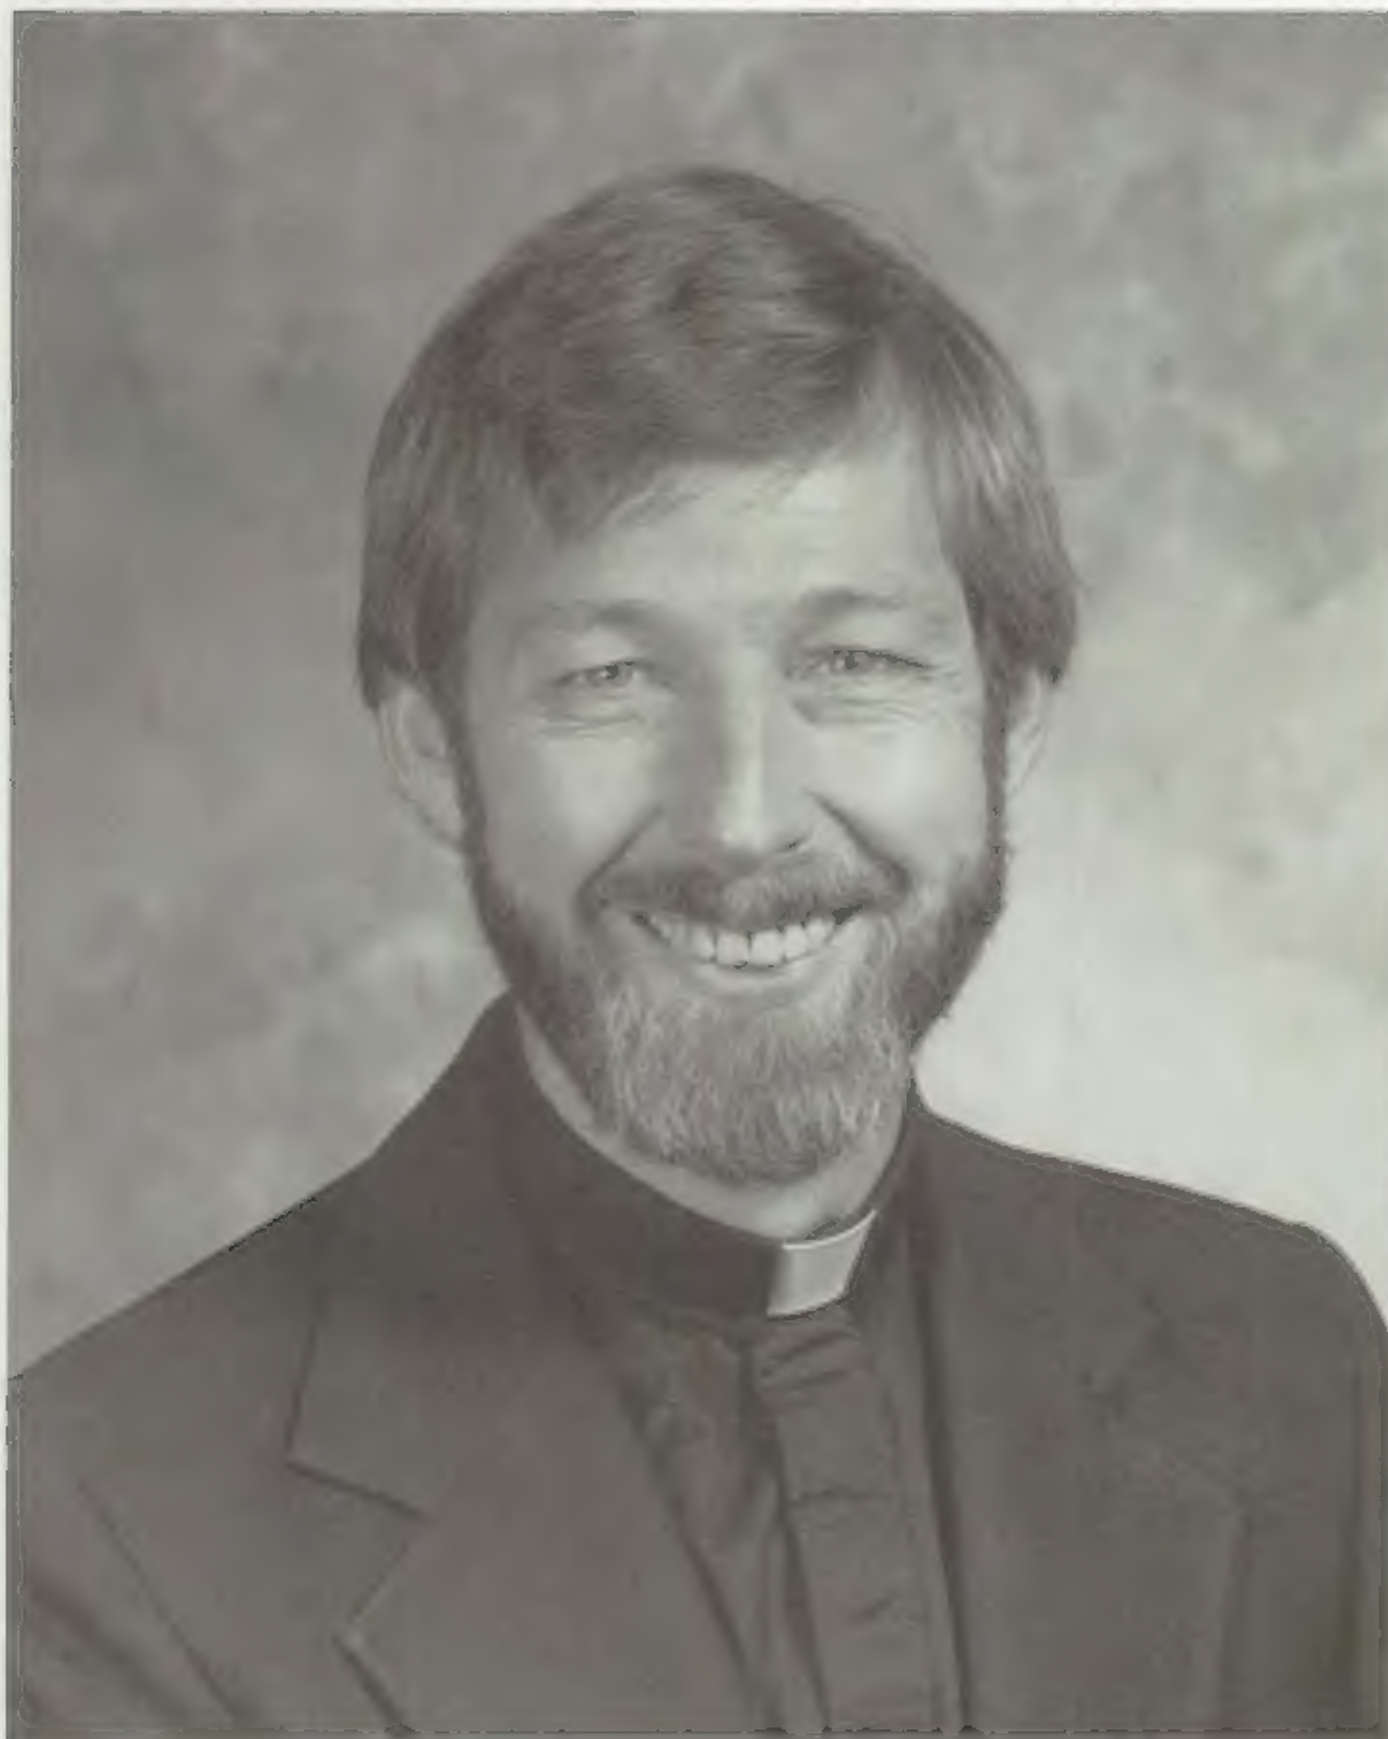

As members of a society dedicated to the tradition of excellence, the Class of 1985 would like to express gratitude to an individual who greatly gives of himself to help us achieve that excellence. That special person is Mr. Jerome Taylor.

A real friend and a man truly devoted to his profession, Mr. Taylor has etched deep impressions of loyalty and dignity upon us which will remain long after thoughts of the Revolution or the New Deal have faded from our minds. He is always at ease with, and has the greatest respect for, his students — a respect that is returned by those students and faculty members alike.

As with the sides of a sphere, the facets of Mr. Taylor's personality are infinite. Often in his class, he will digress from the history test for a session of "Uncle Jerry's Story Time."

St. Joe's Prep is a school of traditions, and Mr. Taylor has shown himself to be one of the finest of these traditions. Therefore, it is with sincere appreciation that we, the Class of 1985, dedicate the 1985 Chronicle Yearbook to Mr. Jerome Taylor.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

INTERVIEW . . .

The majority of the Prep Community knows Father Sauter as a President who for the past four years has served the Prep well. The Class of 1985, however, knows him on a more personal level. Both were freshmen together, having arrived in September of 1981.

Father Sauter, by way of his example, has taught us what it means to serve God through his people. While his dedication to his vocation has taught us the meaning of being a Christian, his dedication to his profession has shown us through a Jesuit education, where the real values in life lie. He has helped bring to the Prep an awareness that success as a student is equated not only with academic excellence, but also with values and character.

In his involvement in the daily affairs of the Prep, Father Sauter has been fair and supportive. He is an extremely accessible president who is never too busy when it comes to Prep students. Whether they need help, or just want to talk, Father is always there and always willing.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

June 1985

Dear Class of 1985,

Your Prep years are over; they are part of your past. The effects of these years, however, are yours, and they may last long after your own earthly life is ended.

You have had many rich and beautiful experiences these years, but you have also suffered some great pain, for growth almost necessitates pain. Like Pippin, you have sought to be free, and, like him, you sometimes looked in the wrong places, only to find that what you thought would bring freedom brought bondage.

Through that searching and pain, you have begun to experience the paradox of life. Like Pippin you have begun to see that true freedom comes only in commitment. You have also begun to appreciate the paradox contained in Jesus' teaching: unless the grain of wheat dies, it remains but a single grain; only in losing one's life does one find it. To the extent that you can integrate these paradoxes into your life, you will find true happiness and God.

It has been our pleasure to be with you, to help you to the best of our ability. Where we have failed, forgive us; where we can do more, please allow us. Continue your efforts to grow in wisdom, age, and grace before God and His people, and be at peace, for God, who has begun this good work in you, will bring it to completion.

Godspeed, and come back often. It is your home, and we will miss you.

Sincerely,

(Rev.) David A. Sauter, S.J.
President

Mr. Robert A. Haley, Chairperson

The Board of Trustees, that great body which is enshrouded in mystery and awe to the average student, is really quite human. Although the workings of this group of individuals goes unnoticed, they none the less contribute their time and talents for the improvement of the Prep.

Working in several areas, these dedicated friends of the Prep are responsible for the major policy-making decisions which affect all of us. In particular, two sub-committees which influence the Prep community are the Education and the Faculty-Student Affairs Sub-Committees. These two groups consult with faculty and students at their monthly meetings and seek their input when making major policy decisions.

The Prep is deeply indebted to these generous people; and although we rarely recognize them, the Class of '85 would like to say Thank You Very Much!

ADMINISTRATION

The administration here at the Prep deserves much of the credit for our school's excellent reputation for being the finest secondary school in the area. It's hard to believe that six people could direct a complicated institution such as the Prep with such precision. These six combine to make a very proficient unit, as is reflected in their running of the school. They are very visible members of the Prep Community, and many of them also teach. They stay in close contact with many of the students. Some of them are also very involved with other groups pertinent to running the Prep, such as the Board of Trustees, Alumni Association, and the Parents' Clubs. It is because of their efforts that the Prep is what it is today.

SECRETARIES

Mrs. Anita Pesot

There is a group of individuals at the Prep who don't receive much recognition, although they perform a great service to the school. These people are known collectively to many only as — the secretaries. Whether it is Mrs. Pesot in the College Guidance Office, Mrs. McPoyle in the Main Office Complex, or any of the others from among their ranks, their job is to keep the school running as smoothly and efficiently as possible. Without their efforts, our story at the Prep would be a much more disorganized and difficult one.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

One organization which serves to further the educational, religious, and charitable interests of the Prep is the Alumni Association. Through this medium, graduates of the Prep work to insure that students are able to obtain as fine an education here as they did in years past. Over the years, the alumni have proven to be generous contributors during the various fund-raising campaigns, contributing over $260,000 last year to the school.

The Alumni Association participates in numerous fund-raising efforts throughout the year. The Association sponsors a Communion Breakfast each Lent and a Golf and Tennis Tournament in June. The Alumni are also active participants in the Phonathon and Hawkton. The Board of Governors meets quarterly to discuss matters of the most importance to the Prep and its graduates. The Alumni Association is truly an important element in the operation of our school.

MOTHER'S CLUB

As its name suggests, the Mother's Club is a group of Prep mothers who meet monthly in order to support and organize a number of Prep financial and social functions. In particular, the Mother's Club sponsors the Homecoming Dance and in conjunction with this social event, they sponsor the Homecoming Raffle. Thanks to their concerted effort in this area the tuition has been kept at a reasonable level. Also, this year's Junior Ring Mass was under the direction of the Mother's Club, as it has been in the past. The Annual Mother-Son Communion Breakfast and the Senior Dinner were great successes once again, thanks to the mothers' efforts. The success of this year's events were due primarily to the direction of Mrs. Jeanette Madianos, the club's president, and Brother Michael Mulroe, their moderator

As one of the most influential organizations within the Prep family, the Father's Club concerns itself with the athletic and financial life of the school. Headed by club president John Smith, the Father's Club works to raise revenues and obtain donations for academic and athletic activities. In addition to the sale of program booklets and food at various sporting events throughout the year, the Father's Club holds a Freshman Night in the fall. The primary function of the club, however, has always been to provide tuition for any Prep student whose father passes away during the school year.

Meeting once a month, the fathers have an opportunity to socialize, to listen to speakers and to plan upcoming events. An essential element of the Prep tradition, the efforts of the Father's Club are recognized by all. Also, the members of the sports teams are especially grateful for the time and effort the club has given and for the faith they've put in the Prep's athletic program.

Springsteen said it much more simply, "Perhaps someday we will be glad to remember even these things." However, who is more appropriate to sum up the Classics Department than Vergil, "Nia uturefa e'llwa ecollectra ithwa lationea venea heseta hingsta." Indeed the Classics Department often has to suffer the slings and angry shouts of irate students before, during, and after tests, but years later, Prep Alumni appreciate their Latin background.

The Latin teachers strive to instill in the Prep student an appreciation of the classical themes and authors which pervade our culture, and are at the core of a Jesuit education. There is a required curriculum of three years of Latin at the Prep, plus an option for those more curious students to pursue three years of intensive Greek studies. Since the majority of the department is comprised of former Prep students with impressive credentials, the classics teachers exhibit a level of dedication and sympathy unparalleled at the Prep.

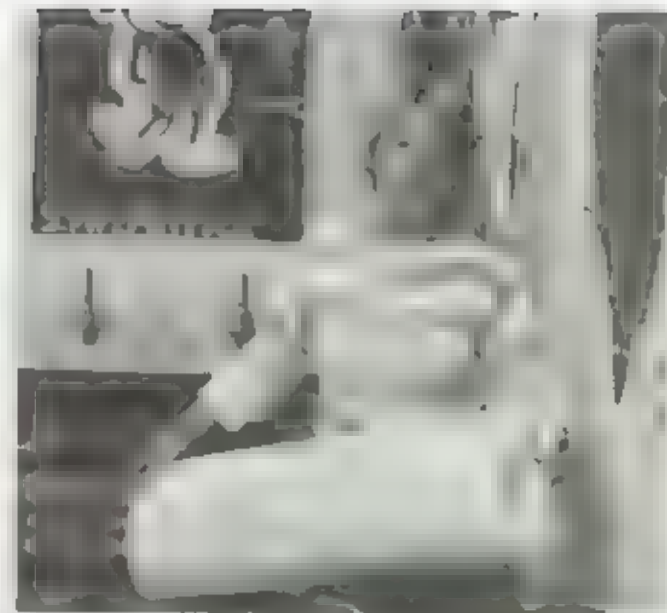

SPECIAL AREAS

FINE ARTS:

Through the activities of the Fine Arts Department at the Prep, the student's appreciation of music and art is enhanced. He is also aided in the development of Communication and Typing skills. The study of Health enables the student to understand his body and take proper care of it. These Special Area Programs help the student achieve the balance of a healthy mind, body, and spirit.

The English Department at the Prep has established a fine tradition of teaching fundamental grammar, vocabulary, writing skills, and a wide variety of literature. Its curriculum provides a forum for the students to analyze and discuss both modern and classical literature. This department offers both Honors and A.P. courses as electives to the upperclassmen. Led by Fr. O'Connor, these teachers perform an admirable task in imparting to the Prep student a well-rounded knowledge of the great authors of the world.

Sr. Kathleen M. Woody,
G.N.S.H., M.A.

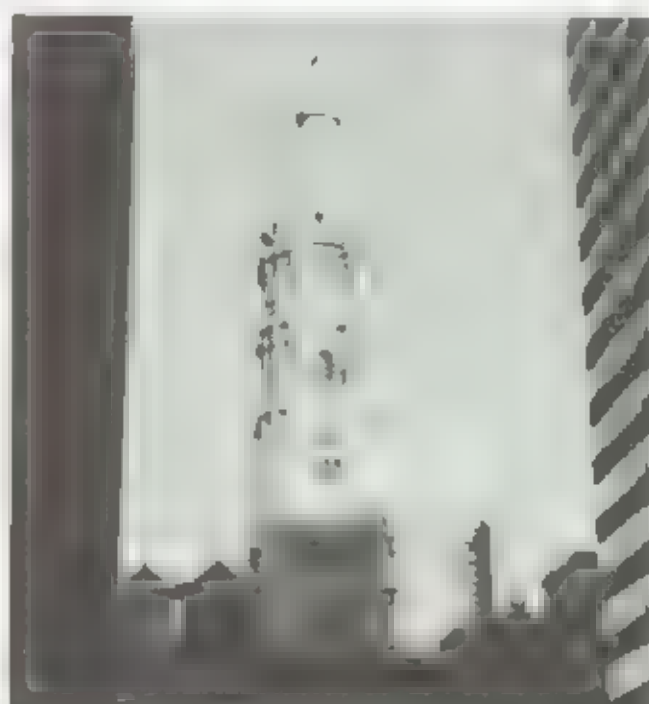

HISTORY

Whether it's ancient Egypt or F.D.R.'s New Deal, these and other topics are discussed within the framework of the Prep's history program. The Prep in its attempt to foster a well-rounded person requires that each student participate in three years of studies of both the past and the present governmental system. The required courses are World History, American History, and Government. Also, there is the option to take A.P. American or A.P. European during Senior year. We all owe these dedicated teachers a great deal of thanks for enlightening us in respect to the fascinating mysteries of the past and the events of the present

Mr. Bernard E. Kueny, M.A.

The main objective of the Mathematics Department is to prepare students for any type of mathematical program which they may encounter in college. But beyond mathematics itself, there is a stress on developing logical thinking abilities within the student and his ability to analyze and appreciate the role of mathematics in scientific thought and development.

Mathematics at the Prep is a four-year program. Required courses for these four years are Elementary Algebra, Intermediate Algebra, Geometry, Analytical Geometry, and Trigonometry. In the fourth year, the student can choose from the electives of Calculus, Computer Math, Probability and Statistics, and Selected Topics.

Due to the dedication of these mathematics teachers, the students will have a strong foundation to build on further in college and beyond.

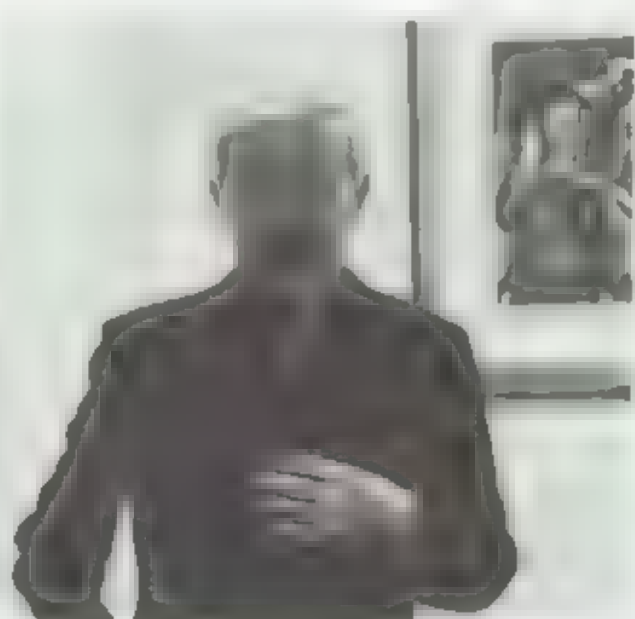

MODERN LANGUAGES

The Modern Language Department enlarges the intellectual horizons of its students by introducing them to a new means of communication. They accomplish this goal through practice in listening, speaking, reading, and writing. The courses also stress the importance of their students being familiar with the geography and history of their particular country of study.

The department also offers German, French, and Spanish clubs, whereby the students are able to further practice their language in a much more relaxed and less academic atmosphere. These clubs publish newspapers written in their respective languages, so that the students are better able to read and translate a foreign language. The German club sponsors an exchange program which offers the participants an opportunity to actively communicate with native Germans in a practical, real-life situation. The French and Spanish clubs offer trips to accomplish similar goals as those achieved by the German exchange program.

RELIGION

The Religion Department at Saint Joseph's Prep tries to inculcate in its students the values inherent in the motto of the Society of Jesus: Ad Maiorem Dei Gloriam. Because the Prep is a Jesuit institution which seeks to live out the ideal of the Magis — doing more than required — the students receive four years of religious training in courses which deal not only with doctrine and church history, but also philosophy and even political systems. The members of this department help students to refine their Christian values and sense of social responsibility, knowing that these values will influence major decisions in the students' lives.

The members of our current science department are all adept at combining the pure sciences with humor, curiosity, and practical applications. This helps to make concrete the ideas presented by the courses. Whether it is angular acceleration, mitochondria, or hydroxide with the indescribable clearness of a cut diamond, scientific data become something to be related to everyday occurrences — or perhaps used to start a conversation with foxy girls. Once a cycle, the students participate in lab periods where they practice physically what has been taught theoretically. All students can fully appreciate the value of labs and even the dreaded lab reports.

COUNSELING

As one of the influential departments at the Prep, the guidance offices work for the "development of college directed, academically talented young men as mature persons, alive in Christ and alive to their world." Offering their services to the students from all four years, the counselors are a major comfort to the readjusting freshman and a needed push to the college-bound senior.

The incoming freshman's counselor helps him to acclimate himself to the strange world of high school and the Prep, where schedules and new friends often pose confusion and fear. Sophomore year brings confidence to the once saucer-eyed freshman but, as he confronts problems with PSAT's or a modern language, he comes to rely more on his counselor for guidance and aid. Junior year finds counselors helping the students with the increasing academic load. Senior year, SAT's, college applications and the Guidance Department are inseparable in this, the Prep student's most decisive year, as he prepares to leave the Prep and face the future.

The Counseling Department works to use the responsibilities, values, and habits that the student has formed by participation both academic and extra-curricular activities to build bridges between school and success in the real world.

CAMPUS MINISTRY

The Campus Ministry coordinates the Retreat Program and also the Masses for the Prep Community. Both of these programs deal with the growth and reflection of the student. In the capable hands of Sr. Woody and Fr. Orr, this program has prospered greatly. The retreat program tries to give students the chance to partake in a day of reflection and discussion of any of their problems. The liturgical program celebrates daily and special masses throughout the year. This institution is the backbone of our spirituality as a community.

“This is no other but the House of God and the Gate of Heaven.”

When one reflects on the history of the Jesuits and of Saint Joseph's Prep in Philadelphia, one often starts with St. Ignatius of Loyola, mentions Old St. Joseph's at Willing's Alley and skips the next hundred or so years, continues with the fire and ends on an optimistic note about the present. One major individual has often been overlooked and thus forgotten. This person is Father Burchard Villiger, S.J., and it was because of his dedication to a beautiful ideal back in 1868 that today there is a Prep and a Church of the Gesu.

One hundred and seventeen years ago Fr. Burchard Villiger took up residence in the block south of Stiles, between Seventeenth and Sixteenth Streets, and with his arrival brought to the then desolate section of Philadelphia a dream of a magnificent edifice and a prosperous college. Fr. Villiger envisioned a Catholic University of Philadelphia with the Church of the Gesu as its center of worship. He was sent to this area determined to bring this vision to its fruition.

Fr. Villiger had been director of studies at the old St. Joseph's College when it was first founded at Willing's Alley in 1851. Having formerly been Provincial of the Maryland Province and a founder of Santa Clara College in California, he was a proven financial and organizing genius and was sent to Philadelphia to establish the college. Twenty years after his arrival, however, it was not the college that had achieved national recognition, but the church, the Gesu. His church, while possibly dwarfing the school in size, certainly rivals the grandest cathedrals in the country. "He came with nothing to rely on but the mercy of Providence, without money or means, with a debt of thirty-thousand dollars and with difficulties presenting themselves everywhere."

Within five months of his arrival a small chapel was built and blessed as the Church of the Holy Family. But even this was designed in such a way as to be easily transformed into a college building when it would eventually be replaced by the Gesu. Father Villiger took up his great undertaking, not only to build a Church as Solomon did in building a temple to God, but also to "teach and to spread God's love, for he felt that the more the intellect knows, the brighter it is and the more like unto God, when that illumination is used for Him." The Church of the Gesu is, in fact, a separate entity from the school, but still it is as integral a part of life at St. Joe's as is the motto of the Jesuits.

The ground was broken at Eighteenth and Stiles Streets on the 10th of March, 1879 with more than twenty thousand people in attendance, and nine years passed before it was ready to be opened for divine services and dedicated. Constructed on Green Hill, the Gesu's walls, some ten-feet thick, would rise in a yet unsettled, rural area of Philadelphia. It was often said that Fr. Villiger would have the anomaly of a church without a congregation to fill it, but that was the age of the greatest rapidity in the growth of the city. Houses were put up on every side and the church was, in fact, too small to accomodate the worshippers who flocked to it.

Had the Gesu been finished according to the dream of Fr. Villiger, it would have rivaled even the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in Washington D.C. for it would have been the duplicate of the Church of the Gesu in Rome, after which it was modeled. Twin spires, with their bells pealing, would have soared some 240 feet into North Philadelphian skies, and its interior would have been inlaid throughout with onyx and marble. As it is realized today the Gesu still is quite inspirational, containing priceless paintings, hand-painted mosaics, five bells ranging from 700 pounds to 4 tons, and other valuable ecclesiastical works of art.

"A triumph of architectural skill and daring," the Church of the Gesu was designed without benefit of steel, as the age of steel hadn't yet arrived. Sitting in the church one can't help but notice the mammoth columns which support the upper and side alcoves. Without these, of course, the church couldn't stand but what of the interior span? How, then, can a roof 100 feet high with an expanse of a full 76 feet stand firm without obstructive, albeit supportive, columns? This, too, the architects questioned but so convinced was Fr. Villiger of its possibility, and so convincing in his argument on the supportive strength of the 10-foot thick side walls that after the architects returned from a trip to Rome, they began the work on the building's foundations.

The magnificent edifice in Romanesque style has an arched ceiling which creates the kind of spacious atmosphere found only in great cathedrals. Its main altar, 72 feet high, was lighted through a large skylight fixed in the roof which is invisible from the body of the church. His financial genius and his sustained zeal were the faculties for winning generous friends such as the Drexels and the Bouviers and the means by which he accomplished this feat of building this "House of God and the Gate of Heaven."

Within the pressed brick walls are cloistered galleries, seating for 1200 persons (standing room for 3000 more), side chapels to Mary and

St. Joseph, as well as altars to St. Ignatius and St. Francis and eight more chapels, four to a side. A structure unique in this city, the Gesu is a massive conception but as massive and as spacious as it is, it looks its size and has all its parts proportioned to one another. Unadorned for over thirty years and spotless white in its interior, the church waited in vain for its onyx and marble. By the end of 1919 it had been completely decorated. Through the delicate skill of one Brother Francis Schroen, a Jesuit artisan, the Gesu as we know it today took form. For some twenty years he had devoted himself to decorating the Jesuit chapels of Boston, Fordham, Georgetown and the Cathedral of Kingston in Jamaica. Through his deft touch, simplicity and workmanship, "no display of ornamentation nor glut of color distracts from the pure beauty of the gold, silver and bronze so generously applied to bring out the Gesu's sheer grandeur and proportions." Also noteworthy are the invaluable paintings by the

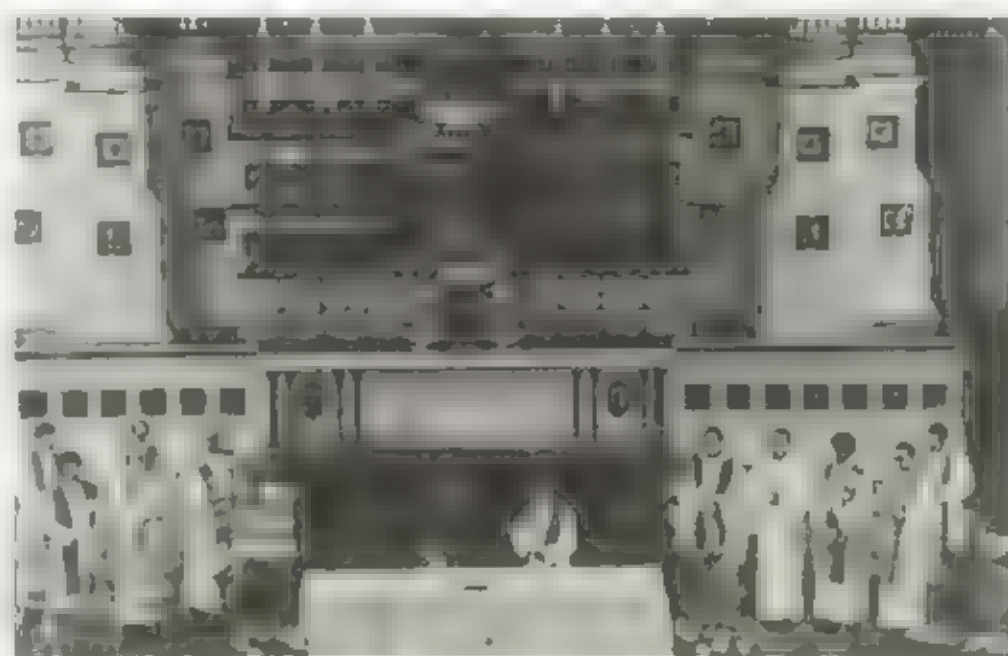

and religious services, to the Junior Ring Mass and finally to the Baccalaureate Mass of the Senior class, the Gesu is a major part of the continuing life at the Prep and a guide to the future after we have left its pews emptied.

"Earnest wishes and plans from the beginning were directed not only toward a grand temple, but also toward a grand college in which youth should receive the higher education of as perfect a kind as any given elsewhere, but imbued with a Christian spirit and guided by the infallible light of Revelation." This was Father Villiger's dream, this was his achievement. The Prep stands today as testimony to that dream and as a tribute to ourselves as fulfillers of that dream, and many others. It has come time for the members of the Class of 1985 to leave the Prep but we will never fully leave it, for a part of us remains here as does a part of the Prep continue on within us wherever we go. And when all else has faded from our minds and the Prep becomes a blurred memory, the experience will remain; tangible realities will linger on in the emotions and memories — memories of those with whom we have shared these past four years, memories of those who taught us, and memories, of course, of the Gesu.

The Gesu today, although a neighborhood parish, is a functional part of the fabric of the life of the Prep student. To enter through its portals is to step back a century in time and experience a part of a religious, architectural and cultural heritage not seen, or felt, often today. It stands as the keeper of silent memories of the classes of Prep students who have celebrated within its walls. From Freshman year with the Mass of the Holy Spirit at the opening of school, through holiday liturgies

From the time I was a child, I have been interested in the history of the United States. I have read many books about the American Revolution and the Civil War. I have also visited many of the places where these events took place. I have been to the Battle of Gettysburg, the Lincoln Memorial, and the White House. I have also been to the sites of the first settlement in America, Plymouth, and the first printing press, the Boston Press.

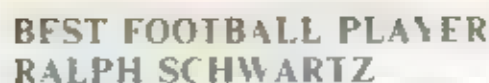

What can be said about Mike that hasn't already been said? Sometimes it seemed that Mike was able to do what he wanted. He was always being the center of attention. He Hawker and Yonker he also is Vice-President of Student Council, a member of the Indoor and Outdoor Track Teams, the Booster Club, the HS Retreat Team, etc. It was rumored that if he tried to do anything more, the school would have to pay him for his services. We thank Mike for his contributions to the Prep Community and to our class.

When Steve struts down the first floor corridor the freshest men in the school are superb taste in apparel. Steve spends much of his free time shopping in cities such as New York, Paris and Rome.

We are thankful to Steve for making the Prep a brighter place.

Abstract: While the existing literature has proposed a number of factors that may be related to the use of body cameras by police officers, there is a need for research that examines the relationship between the use of body cameras and the use of force by police officers. This study examines the relationship between the use of body cameras and the use of force by police officers. The study uses data from a national survey of police officers. The results of the study show that the use of body cameras is associated with a decrease in the use of force by police officers. The study also finds that the use of body cameras is associated with an increase in the use of verbal de-escalation techniques by police officers. The study concludes that the use of body cameras may be a useful tool for reducing the use of force by police officers.

 Our hopes and dreams taller than our fear
 There walks people we all know
 Who shine happiness and want to show
 How everything still comes out right
 And if you try with all your might Triumph will come to you at last

GRADUATING CLASS OF 1985

A LEGACY . . .

It was a brilliant November morning. The sun rose slowly over the hills and houses and warmed the day to a temperature that matched the excitement of the occasion. The ground, hard and frosted, was soon crossed by the crowds in crimson and gray. The stands were quickly filled with young and old, students, alumni, parents, friends, Preppers. They came from all across the Philadelphia area: the Northeast, South Philadelphia, New Jersey, the Main Line, Center City and some from even farther away. An especially enthusiastic group, the soccer team, had come directly from an early morning practice, for the upcoming Catholic League Championship.

The purpose for which they had gathered here on the field in the bright autumn sun linked them to the players. They were here to see a game, to see each other and for yet another reason. There was something present in the air as the team fought and scored once and once again. The shouts and cheers of the crowd, the blares of instruments and beats of drums brought out the thoughts and emotions of this group of onlookers. The players on the field, running, tackling, hitting and being hit, exuded a thought, a feeling. The crowd swung and shouted to the beat of the band. The team surged forward on the field. The victory was complete. The crowd went wild. The school song went up loud and clear across the cool fall morning. The team had won but so had all the fans and onlookers. The pride came forth when the Homecoming trophy changed hands, coming back after a long and notable absence. The pride and the joy mixed together in the swinging throng. Among the hoarse crowd was Prep Pride — that was what was everywhere on this day.

The spirit that binds was present in abundance that day and was evident to everyone. This is the legacy of the Class of 1985, one of spirit. Prep Pride in thought as well as action is ours to leave those that follow. We have inherited this from other spirited classes that we have seen go before us. The Classes of '78 and '83 most notably showed the spirit which all Preppers share. Though we are soon gone from this place, these halls, we leave behind something known well by all Prep students. Though we come and go, Prep Pride remains, and so it goes.

Nobody beats the Prep.

UNDERCLASSMEN CANDIDS

DAZZLE ALL
WITH PERSONALITY

Strength, speed, determination — winning. These are the things that we have come to expect from our sports teams. Starting with football, basketball and cross country in the fall, continuing with basketball, wrestling and swimming in the winter, and track and field in the spring, the Prep benefits from the dedication made by the students who participate on all our sports teams. But no matter what the outcome of the game, match or race, the whole Prep community wins because these students have shown us the true meaning of dedication and teamwork. Prep Prep Prep!

BASEBALL

Baseball, America's national pastime, is one of the lesser known sports at the Prep. Its late start during Spring's beginning coincides with the busiest time of the year for the students. Due to upcoming deadlines for term papers, increased academics and the end of a rough year coming into sight, the sport does not gain a great deal of coverage. But just because it is quiet does not mean that it doesn't exist.

The team, at the start of the season, can be seen in either the gym or the auditorium practicing their throws and swings in the batting cages. When the weather becomes more favorable, they move outdoors to Lighthouse Field, their homefield, where they are able to practice all the aspects of the game.

This year's team, although relatively young, shows great promise. The backbone of the team is made up of several returning seniors. These include Cy Young candidate Dave Banas and slugger George McShea. Other senior starters included Dave Mariano and Jeff Nichols.

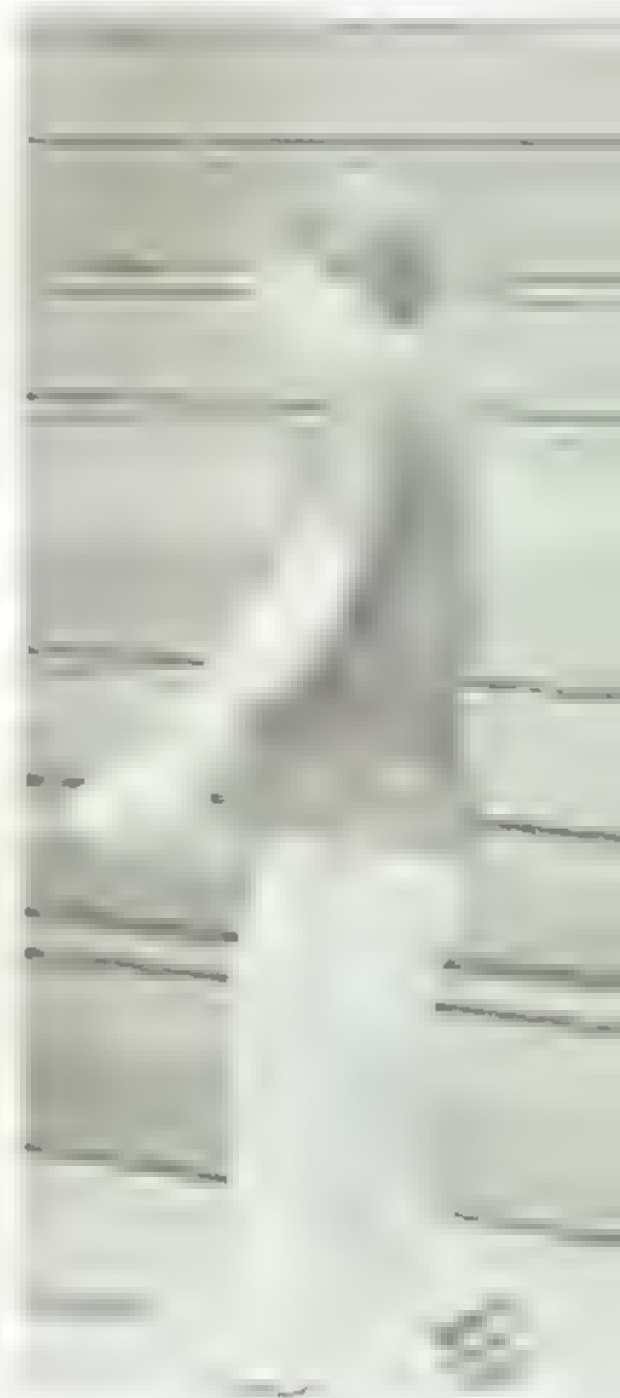

Under the experienced direction of Coach Joseph Malizia, this team fights for a playoff birth in the competitive Catholic League. This team, although not major league material yet, has a great deal of determination and talent, which unfortunately is not recognized by all.

BASKETBALL

The Prep Basketball team struggled through another difficult season in the always tough Catholic League South. The team was led by senior All-Catholic candidates Tim McHugh and Matt Swanick. Both of them were honored as "Outstanding Seniors" by the Markward Basketball Club. These two seniors were leaders, both on and off the field. Seniors Dave Banas and co-captain Brian Reed also contributed greatly. Injuries, however, affected their play. John "Trot-Man" Piecyk also contributed to the team's success off the bench. Juniors Nick Goodwin and Pat Mooney provided front court strength for the Prep. Both rebounded well and provided a good nucleus for the Prep to build upon. Damu Forman has been called the second coming of Michael Jordan and this might be a true statement. Dick Vitale said of Forman, "You can play on my All-American team Mr. Forman." Sophomore twin towers George Marsden and Vince Curran helped the team greatly during the season and in the future will only get better. The future looks bright for the Prep with its returning players. The team played hard and never gave up in any game, which should serve as a guide for the rest of us to follow

BOWLING

Bowling, while not a very publicized sport at the Prep, nonetheless is one which inspires much dedication among the small band of enthusiasts. This year's team, under the quiet leadership of Coach Joe Dugan, included many underclassmen. Although they did not reach the playoffs, this team surprised many of their opponents. Captain Joe Iocono and the Varsity were responsible for upset wins over Bonner and Neuman, teams which eventually faced each other for the championship. The large number of underclassmen has set a foundation for better teams in the near future and the dedication shown by the entire team is yet another great expression of Prep Pride!!

May 26, 1984 the Prep's Varsity-8 beat their arch-rivals Holy Spirit in the American Scholastic Nationals by two lengths. This win earned the team a berth in the Henley Royal Regatta, which features the top crews from around the world. The Prep won its first three races against Pomfret, Groton School, both from the United States, and Kings Chester from England. This made the people of Henley wonder whether or not their home team would win. The Prep's Varsity-8 gave its all, but when the 1.3 mile race was over and the roar from the 70,000 people in attendance had died down, the Prep's boat had turned from a torpedo into a boat full of sorrow. The Prep had lost to their English counterpart, St. Edwards, the English Schoolboy Champions, by only one second. From the banks came the calls to the crew, who lay prone in their boat exhausted, "Good show, St. Joe's!" and "Splendidly done, boys." Although none of this mattered to the oarsmen in the boat at the finish, it was, indeed, a good show, one of which all could be proud. The crew that participated in this prestigious event was Bill Serad (bow) '85, John Coney '84, Brian Clancey '84, John Ward '84, Mike Peterson '85, Jeff Pesot '86, Mike Gerardi '84, Ken Piree (stroke) '85 and Adrian King (coxswain) '85.

Congratulations to the crew and the best of luck for a return to Henley in '85.

CREW

Crew, long the most popular and successful sport at the Prep, had yet another good year. Early mornings on the river, afternoon time trials and ergometer tests all prepare the rowers for the brief but spectacular series of Catholic League Flicks.

Most rowers start rowing in freshman year and learn the finer points of rowing. These freshmen under the direction of Frosh Coach Bill Lamb, are consistently competitive in the Catholic League. After freshman year, the group of survivors move into several different programs. The lightweights and scullers, under the guidance of Coach Bob Hardegan, can be seen on the river every morning. In the afternoons, Head Coach Chuck Crawford takes over with the eight-man boats. Some boats, such as the Varsity Eight, are on the river twice a day and are in constant training. All these efforts combine to produce the best crew program in the City of Philadelphia.

The success of the program is due to many things. The spirit and hardwork of the rowers, the skill and knowledge of the coaches, and the support of the entire Prep community all contribute to the progress of this sport. Taking into account the strengths and assets of this team, the Prep will undoubtedly enjoy the great triumphs they have already known once again in the future.

CROSS COUNTRY AND TRACK

The Cross Country Team had an outstanding year. The team finished a good season by doing well in the championship. All-Catholics Jim Barton and Joe Micofsky contributed to the team's all-around success.

This year's indoor season was a banner one, winning twenty more medals than the previous year. The outdoor season looked to be a promising one, with many runners returning from Cross Country and Indoor Track.

Over the years, the character of the track team has changed considerably since its inception at the Prep. Even though the achievements of the team have gone unmentioned, this small but active group remains very spirited. Under the constant guidance of Coach Cockenburg and Mr. Czudak, the team labors daily in practice from mid-November to June, because for most runners, the season runs together from Cross Country straight through to Outdoor Track.

Early in November the nucleus of the team gathers to begin the long, rigorous conditioning process which aids them in their quest for the Jesuit Championship. Although the sport is called Indoor Track, the team practices out-of-doors, even in the winter months. Snow and ice occasionally interrupt the planned workouts, but never diminish the spirit shown by these runners. Although Track and Cross Country are not as successful as some other sports, their dedication and spirit equal and sometimes exceed those of the more publicized sports.

FOOTBALL 1985

The 1985 Prep Football Team, although failing to make the playoffs by four points, has been one of the most successful in recent years. The tone for the year was set at camp in August. The team worked out in the sweltering heat for five days, three practices a day. Under the fine leadership of its senior class members, and especially the senior co-captains Terry Graham and George "Search and Destroy" Nocito, this year's sessions were the best ever.

Pre-season victories in scrimmages and a big upset win over Penn Charter gave our squad confidence going into Catholic League play. During the regular season, the Prep scored big wins over Roman, West, and O'Hara at their Homecoming in front of about 2,000 fans.

It was after the O'Hara game that the team really started to get fan support. Not only the Boosters and the Hawk showed up, but virtually the whole senior and junior classes turned out to support the team.

As always, the Prep had a great defense this year. All-Catholic Honors were received by defensive linemen Chuck "Parrot" Parsons, Terry "Cat" Graham, Joe "Romeo" Cunningham, linebacker Jim "Chicken" Irvine and safety George Nocito. Other defensive standouts, like seniors "Boy" George McShea, and Tom Hiscox, as well as juniors James Nolen and John McCafferty, made this year's defense a formidable one.

The Prep's offense was successful both on the ground and in the air. The offensive line of "Pigs" Scally, Dave Cogan, Pat

Dever, Robert "Ike" Eichenhofer and All-Catholic junior Jeff Pescot gave senior Ralph Schwartz (All-Catholic), junior fullback Jim Murray and sophomore All-Catholic Tim Irvine gaping holes to run through. The air attack was led by two more All-Catholic selections, receiver Brian Quinn and quarterback Jim Lavelle. Whether on the ground or in the air, the Prep "O" always seemed to come up with a big play when one was needed.

This year's football team set the tone for this school year. Early victories reinstated the pride lost during last season. This pride soon infected the entire student body, and students began to support all extracurricular activities. It is for this reason that the 1985 Prep Football Team will not soon be forgotten.

SOUTHERN DIVISION CHAMPS

1984 was the year Prep soccer gained respect and revenge. The 1984 squad gained the respect of the Catholic League by dominating Southern Division play with a 13-1 record, thereby clinching the Southern Division championship. But more importantly, the varsity team of '84 earned the respect of the Prep. It gave the Prep a team it could be proud of. Soccer '84 had a spirit about it, which was like a magnet drawing the Prep toward it. Also this season will long be remembered as the season when Prep soccer got revenge against arch-rival Bonner by crushing them three consecutive times. The key to the soccer team's success was the leadership provided by the seniors. The seniors set the tone for the season and led the team to victory.

The '84 season was typified by steady defensive play and lightening-fast offensive plays. The defense under the leadership of All-Catholic Mike Wolf was the backbone of the team. No matter what happened, you could always count on the defense to back the play up. The defense, composed of All-Catholic Andy Lynch, Senior Scott Kazmar and Junior Mike Marinari, totally demolished the opponent's offense by recording eight shutouts and an 0.9 goals per game against average. No defense would be complete without a great goalie and this year the Prep had the finest, freshman Mark Weinmann.

The midfield was the glue of the team. It joined the offense and the defense and made eleven players function as one. The midfielders were the workhorses of the team, constantly playing both offense and defense. Three seniors made up the mid-field: All-Catholic Bill "Chilly" Winters, Senior Vince Beatty and Captain Kevin Rawlins.

The offense of "Masters of Penetration" had a phenomenal year, scoring an average of 3.2 goals per game. They also outscored their opponents by 45 goals. The "Masters of Penetration" are All-Catholic Matt Swanick, Senior Mike Keeler, Junior Vince Wallace and Sophomore sensation John Taulane. The team is also indebted to managers Bern Goldschmidt and Bill Zsembik, and trainers Victor and Vaughn Puccio, as well as Mr. Nick Kueny, whose behind the scenes help aided the team in their quest for the Southern Division Championship.

SWIMMING

The Swim Team underwent a rebuilding year during the 1984-85 season since the team had only two returning seniors. The team was led by Co-captains Drew Hayden and Tom Duggan, and Coach Joe Schmidt.

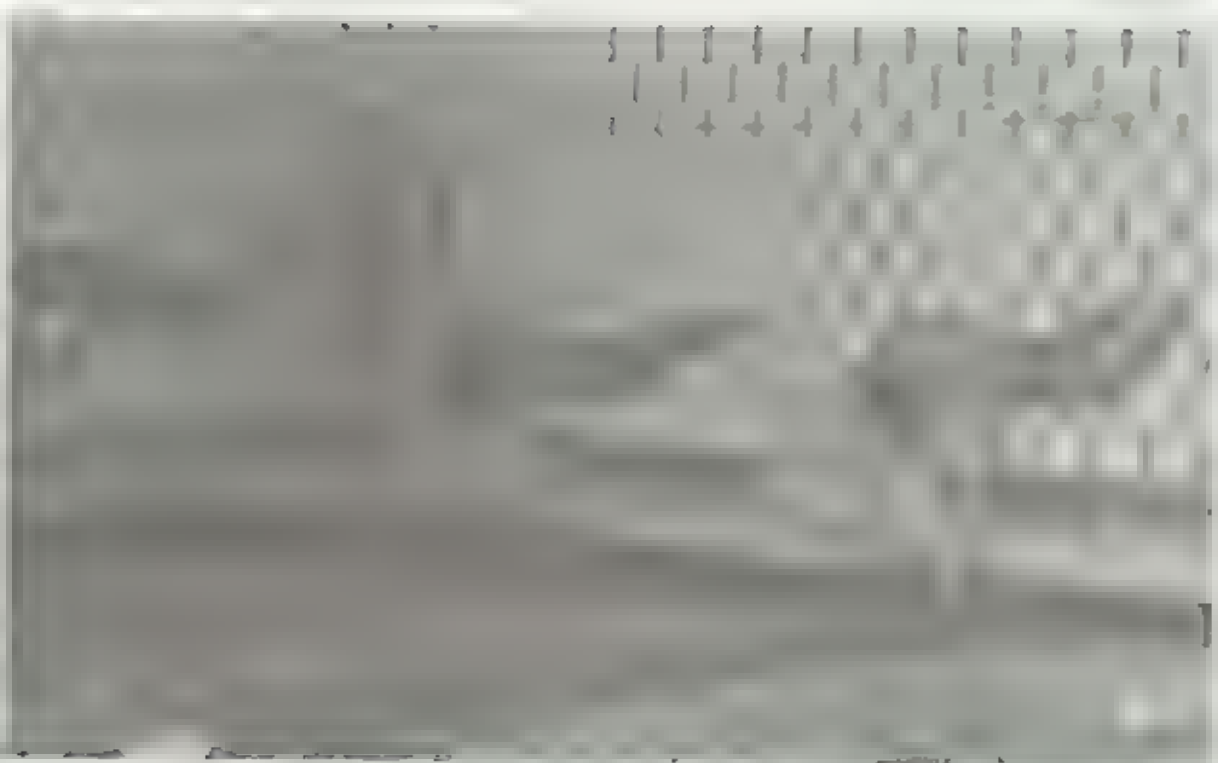

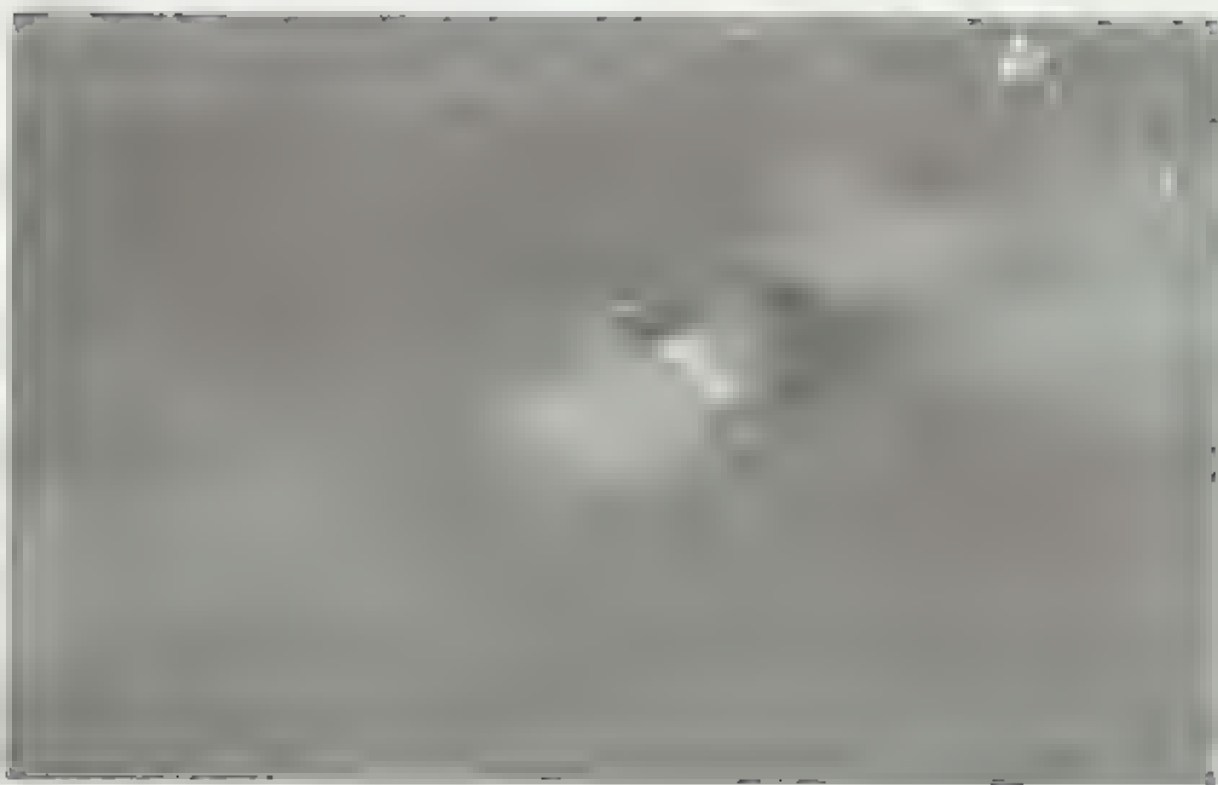

Plagued by illness, injuries, and other problems, the tankers did not pull themselves together until the Championships. Senior Dan Donovan finished out his exceptional career with a sizzling freestyle leg on the 200 Medley relay. Chris Mayfield surprised the league by capturing All-Catholic as a freshman in the 200 Individual Medley event. Junior breaststroke ace Bill McDonald placed high at champs in several clutch swims. Senior Drew Hayden capped off his high school career nicely. Drew set two Catholic records and was All-Catholic for the fourth year in a row, as well as attaining All-American status. The highlight of the season was when the 400 meter freestyle relay quartet of Chris Mayfield, Drew Hayden, Tom Duggan, and Rick Simpson achieved All-Catholic Honors. All in all, the team had a rather fine rebuilding year.

TENNIS

The tennis team is having another successful spring this year. They are aiming for their ninth consecutive winning season and a spot in the Catholic League playoffs. The team also looks toward the future with a great influx of underclass talent, led by Sophomore Bob Boyle. The senior leadership is handled by captain Kevin Quinn, co-captain Todd Senno, and Sean Hessman. The balance of the team is filled by the underclassmen. The freshmen Brady, McHugh and Heisler will see much playing time next year, as should sophomores Nage, Bruderle and Madianos and Junior Schmittner. This team should be an exciting one to watch out for in the years to come.

GOLF

Golf requires a lot of time, hard work, and many hours of practice. These determined sportsmen just don't get the recognition which they deserve. The warm air, sunshine, and green scenery of spring make for a very pleasant afternoon on the range — until you slice a ball into the woods!

The Prep golf team began their season in the cold of mid March and ended it in the warm days of early June. Mr. Michael Cunningham once again coached the team through a successful year of competition. This year Mr. Joseph Grady, S.J., also helped guide the group of Prep golfers. The Prep's home is at Walnut Lane Public Golf Course and it also functions as their practice eighteen. The schedule is a rigorous one and features one or more tough matches per week. The team competes against its usual Catholic League opponents and also takes on others.

This year's team had a number of assets, but was primarily composed of many young and inexperienced players. There was so much youth, in fact, that there were only a few players with any previous match experience. The team had to rely on the knowledge of Coach Cunningham and the leadership of senior Dave Trainor. Mr. Cunningham planned to play everyone as often as possible in the 1985 season in order to gain the valuable experience for future years. Even though the team was not a powerful force in the league this year, they will be a hard team to beat in the years to come with the majority of the team returning for next season.

This 1985 Wrestling season began with some doubt in everyone's mind as to whether the team could once again be successful in only its third year. This year's team was made up of only one previous varsity wrestler and eleven new, and for the most part, inexperienced wrestlers. The experience, which enabled the team to be once again competitive in the Catholic League and outside of it as well, came mainly from head coach, Mr. Kevin Martin.

The team started off very well, taking out such league leaders as Martin Luther King and Central High Schools. Continuing to excel, the team next "whambasted" Malvern, a traditional rival of the team. In addition, the Prep once again made impressive showings in several pre-season tournaments and, in fact, took second in the first annual Jesuit Invitational Wrestling Tournament, the creation of our own Fr. Michael Hricko.

As the team entered the Catholic League season, they were shaken up a bit by a tough loss to Cardinal Dougherty. That first match was important, for it later determined whether or not the team would make the playoffs. As it turned out, this was not to be the year for the Prep to make the playoffs. In fact, the team dropped two spots in the standings, falling from fifth to seventh. However, despite this disappointment, the team did contribute a major accomplishment to the wrestling program; it firmly established Prep Wrestling as a contender in the Catholic League.

INTRAMURALS

Moderator Mr. Paul Lynch is taken aback at a ref's call

The crowd roars as he runs down the field. He passes the fifty, the forty, can they stop him now? He dodges one last defender and swings into the end zone. Touchdown! He spikes the ball in triumph. The stadium's screaming crowd is on its feet cheering wildly

Skating down the side, he showers his fierce opponent with a rain of ice as he checks him into the boards with a crash. He picks up the puck and heads toward the opposing team's goal. The goalie stands his ground as our man winds up from the point-slapshot-score. That makes another hattrick. The rink is filled with a chanting crowd showing their appreciation.

He comes out of nowhere to reject the shot, as he bats the ball away from his opponent. The ball is half way down the court when he finally catches up to it. He palms it easily as he takes off from the top of the key and slams it home. The court is suddenly covered by an onslaught of screaming fans. He has just won the NBA championship. As the buzzer sounds, he wakes up. His homeroom has just lost another game, eliminating them from the playoffs.

Is this "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," or perhaps "The Secret Life of Joe Prep?" Can this place, this dimension unto itself where man is his own hero, really exist? Can this greatness and athletic prowess be real? What is the answer to all of these questions? Of course, it must be the Prep Intramural League, in which anything can happen, and usually does happen.

The magical field, which transforms itself from an ordinary parking lot into a battleground every afternoon of the fall is the home of intramural football. The area in which the lowly underclassmen dine is transformed into the home of intramural hockey. Finally, there is the Prep gym, ever the home of intramural basketball. This is the world of the Prep's intramural athletes where they perform with excitement and passion. The Prep's Intramural program, directed by Mr. Paul Lynch and Mr. John Milewski, gives students of any stature and athletic ability the chance to compete in a fun way with friends and classmates. The Intramural program offers touch football in the fall, street hockey in the winter and basketball in the spring. The competition is fierce and fun. An athletic outlet complements the education at the Prep and provides recreation. Walter Mitty may be alive and well at St. Joe's Prep, and the Prep is the better for it.

ACUTINUS

Of the many pillars that hold St. Joe's Prep up, activities is certainly an aspect of the Prep which is seldom mentioned. The Prep student is rounded out, not only as sports or academics in "rounding" the Prep student. St. Joe's offers various activities ranging from the literary, such as the Hawklet or yearbook, to the creative activities such as Boosters and wargaming. Other interesting clubs and activities include the language clubs, the Chess Club, the Photography Club, the Chronicle Literary Magazine and Intramurals. These and many other extracurriculars provide the Prep student the opportunity to participate in activities with other students who have similar interests.

Brennan, Sauter, Keunv, Poindexter All of the big names had gathered at the Franklin Plaza Hotel on the night of Nov. 23, 1984. The reason? The biggest social gala of the year — the Prep's annual Homecoming Dance.

This special weekend started off well, as Mr. Brennan announced to the student body at a pep rally that the annual raffle goal of $75,000 had been reached for the third consecutive year. The students, realizing that they received an extra holiday for this, went wild.

The weekend proceeded to get better as the annual Thanksgiving football game was played. In front of hundreds of screaming students, Prep graduates and parents, the Prep Football team soundly defeated LaSalle by a score of 16-0. This was the first win against LaSalle in the last five years, adding the sweet taste of revenge to the victory.

The weekend was brought to a great conclusion with the dance itself. Sponsored by the Mother's Club, the dance is usually a success. However, this, their fiftieth annual dance, was a tremendous success. The students and their dates were entertained in one room by a disc-jockey, while the parents and the alumni listened to the music of both the Prep band and a live orchestra. The highlight of the night was the drawing of the raffle's $10,000 first prize winner, along with the trips to the Caribbean and Hilton Head, S.C., which were second and third prizes respectively.

Homecoming weekend is usually one of excitement and happiness, but by anyone's standards, this weekend was by far better than most.

PREP BAND

At 8.00 A.M. every morning, a large group of students rush into a small back chamber for rehearsal. These students, the Prep Band, work to produce many marvelous melodies for the Prep community. David Bulcavage, in his first year here, conducts the different disciplines within the group, including the concert and jazz bands and the chorus. These groups come together and combine their talents during the Christmas and Spring concerts.

Even after all this work, there is a group of fiery musicians who still perform throughout the year. These dedicated musicians, better known as the Mini-band, are often seen inspiring and exciting crowds at pep rallies, football and soccer games, and wherever the Prep needs them.

Band Director Mr. David Bulcavage

BOOSTERS — CHEERLEADERS

Prep Pride means school spirit and support. Two groups are examples of Prep Pride at its best. The Boosters are an enthusiastic group of students who attend sporting events such as football and soccer games, and lead the fans in cheers. The Boosters are always there to urge on the players, as well as to incite the spectators. Many members of the sports teams have remarked that without the Boosters it would be hard to get psyched for a game.

Another key to the Prep's sporting successes is the bouncy and beautiful cheerleaders. Led by their captains Sharon Branka, Liz Leahy and Joan Manley, they perform their well-written and well-rehearsed cheers at all the games. Under the direction of their moderator Sr. Woody, they add an extra dimension to the Prep. Without these two groups the Prep wouldn't be what it is today.

BLACK CULTURE CLUB

One of the better known activities in the school, the Black Culture Club had yet another successful year. Under the leadership of moderator Mr. Charles Ginn and club president Charles Marable, this organization, known more commonly as the BCC, seeks to promote the achievements of Blacks, along with their culture. The club meets several times each month in order to plan its upcoming events. Among others, these include the annual Spring Fashion Show, dances and the sponsoring of talks from guest speakers. Our school is truly fortunate to have such a group which helps to better unify the members of the Prep community.

CHRONICLE MAGAZINE

"The Synergist", a publication of the Chronicle Literary Magazine is intended to bring you those moments when members of our community paused to capture a special experience. Their work may take the shape of a story or poem, sketch or photograph, but regardless of the form, each will bring us in closer contact with one another.

This publication is called "The Synergist" because the name announces the intention to publish a magazine that creates something special by bringing together a variety of distinct and separate elements. The focus continues to be the efforts of the current student body, but the staff hopes to attract submissions from the faculty, alumni, and the friends of the Prep. At times they will bring you some "classics" from past literary magazines and, generally, keep the pages spaced with surprises.

AUDIO - VISUAL / LIBRARY

As anyone who has ever visited the Prep library knows, the library club, which is run by Mrs. Wendy Robbins, is the epitome of efficiency and organization. Never failing in their efforts to help their classmates, the student library assistants have proven to the world what hard work and determination can do. The library aides are always there to hand you a magazine or to show you where to find that elusive book which is needed for your term paper. But it doesn't stop there. These individuals also perform many arduous tasks that are never seen. These include organizing thousands of magazines for our reading pleasure, shelving books in the proper places, and operating the library's two computers. We owe a great deal to these devoted individuals!

Just get out!

DRAMATICS

Under the direction of its first year moderator producer/director Fr. Garrett Orr, S.J., the Dramatics program at the Prep has soared to new heights. Father Orr has brought a new standard of excellence and professionalism to the program, which is evident in the quality of the recent productions. Another accomplishment of this activity was staging two plays this year, and the troop hopes to put on three more next year.

The first production, which took place in November, was Pippin, a tale of a young man searching for himself. This play was a tremendous success, being sold out nearly every night. It was by far the most successful staging of the club in recent years.

In mid-March the Dramatics program presented its production of 1776, a musical comedy set in the Revolutionary Era. The cast and stage crew rehearsed for countless hours and, as expected 1776 was as successful as Pippin.

However, as anyone associated with the theater knows, no matter how good the technical aspects of the play are, its success is ultimately determined by the actors. This year there has been an abundance of good actors. Among others, these rising stars include Rich DeMarco, Bernie Goldschmidt, Tony DeCarlo, Charles Cusick, Mark Chiacchiere, and Sean Hessman.

Due to the efforts of all involved — Father Orr, the actors, and the stage crew — Dramatics this year has left a legacy on which future programs can be modeled.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUBS

GERMAN:

The German Club consists of those Prep students who take part in the annual exchange with the students of the Guttenburg Gymnasium in Bergheim. Led by Herr Masko, these students receive a first-hand experience of living in a foreign country, as well as of making international friends. This program has always been a great success.

FRENCH:

Students in this club are interested in learning the finer points of the French language. These students can always be seen sharing a Coke with Mr. Frank "Paco" Raffa or buying him a pizza. The club has many important meetings, including the annual picture-taking session. They participate in many activities, such as a trip to Paris and the Riviera.

SPANISH:

The Spanish club members are interested in becoming acquainted with Spanish culture. Señor Mendez accompanies Prep students on a trip to Mexico, visiting such exotic locales as Acapulco. The club also travels to Spanish restaurants in the Philadelphia area to experience various Spanish delicacies. It is one of the most popular clubs in the school.

FOREIGN TRIPS

On the beach in Nice

Wishing to expand the cultural horizons of its students, the Prep sponsors a number of trips abroad. These trips take students to such exotic places as Munich, Bonn, Paris, Monaco, Idaho, Never — neverland, Rome Capri, and new this year Moscow and Leningrad.

The German Exchange Program, the one exchange program at the Prep, is an ongoing program and involves St. Basil's Academy and Bergheim Gymnasium. The French and Spanish trips along with the Easter Classical Program go abroad during the Easter vacation. This year with the addition of the Russian Trip, Mr. Kendall Mattern and his cabal of pinko sympathizers visited Finland and the Motherland as well. The Summer Classical Program under the direction of Mr. Henry V. Bender is a tradition in good stead at the Prep. Ranking among these giants as well is the annual trip, led by Mr. William Scott to Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. All these excursions serve as educational as well as cultural experiences for the student participants. Most notably the Summer Classical Program offers the opportunity to gain College credit. The contributions made by these various cultural programs expand the minds of the students and add to the fine education at the Prep

PREP HAWKLET

Father Gerald V. O'Connor
S.J., Hawklet Moderator

The Hawklet, the Prep's student newspaper, has come a long way in the last few years. The academic year '84-'85 also marked the first year that the Hawklet utilized word processing in the layout phase of production. The loss of three senior editors in June of '84 left a great deal of slack to be picked up by the staff which is made up mostly of underclassmen. This challenge was met most handily as the Junior staff picked up nicely where the Class of '84 left off. Tom Devine, John Schmittner, John Farley and Mark Berry easily learned the intricacies and particular problems facing the production of a quality newspaper. Under the continued tutelage of moderator Fr. Gerald O'Connor and Editor-in-Chief Mike Broadhurst, the staff attempted to make the improvements of recent years permanent.

The year '84-'85 also marked the 25th anniversary of the publication of the Hawklet. The change in the content over the years is almost as marked as the change in the school since the Hawklet's inception in 1960. The Hawklet's name, student newspaper, reflects the aspirations of the staff to make the Hawklet independent of the Administration and responsible as well as responsive to the student body. In its attempts to move closer to its ideals, the Hawklet's editorials have touched on many relevant and important issues. Sizes of A.P. classes, exam weights, Senior Slides, politics and various other topics of interest to students found space as the students found expression in the Hawklet. The paper also touched on lighter notes such as movie and record reviews, sports and activities.

The Hawklet attempted to — and to a large extent became — another expression of life at the Prep. Just as life has changed, so has the Hawklet and so will it continue to change as long as the medium is meaningful to the Prep student.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

On November 14, 1984, thirty-nine members of the Prep's class of 1985 were inducted into the Joseph A. Mattern Chapter of the National Honor Society. For well over half a century the National Honor Society has strived to bring the achievements of outstanding high school students to the attention of their classmates, parents, communities and the colleges they plan to attend. Chapters like the Prep's Joseph A. Mattern Chapter are found in more than 20,000 secondary schools and continue to give practical meaning to the Society's dedication to scholarship, service, leadership and character.

One of the functions of the National Honor Society is to improve scholarship and to place the regular and faithful performance of academic work in its proper place within the high school body. The Society's approach to scholarship represents a commitment to learning, as well as a willingness to spend the necessary time and effort for succeeding in the academic area.

A second function of the National Honor Society is to provide service. The service aspect of the society promotes an individual's willingness to work without compensation, and, at times, without recognition, for the benefit of those in need. A third concern for the National Honor Society is leadership. According to NHS tenets, leaders lead and exert a wholesome influence within the school, on the student body and in numerous student activities. The price of leadership is sacrifice — the willingness to yield one's personal interests to the interests of others.

The fourth component is character. Character is the healthy element in a man that helps to distinguish one man from another. But character is achieved, not inherited. It is a product of constant attention, a daily awareness of what is right and proper. And it is demonstrated by such qualities as reliability, honesty and altruism.

Using the above qualities as the criteria, a faculty committee composed of Messrs. Cunningham, Hart and Taylor reviewed the applications, references and essays submitted by the first quintile seniors.

VOLUME II EDITION XX

The 1984-85 Hawkeye staff succeeded in astounding the Prep community with its own brand of news reporting. The Hawkeye left its format of covering only sporting events and began covering all extra-curricular activities. It also added coaches' interviews and teacher profiles to cap off a banner year. There were also several internal changes in the paper. Chris Sylvester '86 took over the title of editor, bringing new esteem to this position. Scott Vengals '86 filled the role of assistant editor. The publication also acquired a new moderator, Mr. Joseph Grady, S.J. The Hawkeye has improved greatly over the years. The paper's teacher profiles have become a favorite of the students. They have helped solve such age-old questions as "What is Mr. Brennan's favorite food?", and "Where is Mr. Mendez's favorite vacation spot?" These innovations have improved the quality of the paper, but one feature has remained constant throughout the years, the dedicated typing of Mrs. McPoyle. Each year, she has graciously given of her time to type the Hawkeye, so, this year, the staff has recognized her efforts by making her co-moderator.

PRE-PREP

Miss Sue Wickersham helping out students in math

This fall, the Pre-Prep Program entered its fifteenth year as the largest division of our school's Christian Service Program. Under the direction of Fr. Vincent Taggart, S.J., Faculty Coordinator, the program provides students with instruction in both reading and mathematical skills. Running from early October into March, this Saturday morning program provides tutoring by area high school and St. Joseph's Prep students to eighth grade students from all over the city. Jerry Wall, this year's Student Director, enlists tutors and provides them with information on the general procedures involved, while Mrs. Edmund Scanlan, Mrs. Reveso, and Miss Sue Wickersham supervise the reading and math programs. A volunteer program, Pre-Prep offers its tutors only the satisfaction of having shared their knowledge with others.

PRO-LIFE CLUB

There is something new at the Prep. A long awaited Pro-Life Club has been established this year. The club is available to those students who are concerned about the critical issue of abortion and about protecting the rights of the unborn. The club was founded by Stewart Barbera '86, Mr. Edmund Scanlan, the club moderator, and Mr. Daniel Brennan, the Dean of Studies.

The idea which the club tries to relate to the students is that they can make a significant difference in helping along the pro-life movement. They are also attaining a greater knowledge of the complex issues surrounding abortion. However, the main purpose of the club is to raise money which is donated to various organizations that help pregnant girls medically, financially, and emotionally. The club is also starting a letter-writing committee that will mail literature and try to make the public more aware of the pro-life movement.

At present the pro-life club has 45 members and is growing steadily. It is open to all students who wish to share their feelings and opinions, whether they are pro-life or not.

The Photo Club consists of a loosely organized band of students. However, beyond this statement, little is known about this mysterious group. It is even rumored that each member does not know the identity of the others. However, a common link between these students has been found — they all seem to enjoy photography. From their supposed hideout on the second floor, known to many only as "The Lab", they develop the pictures which they have taken. This club, through its efforts, has captured many of our memorable moments at the Prep for eternity.

Hey, let's be careful out there!

My nose, my nose!

The Retreat Team is one of the major components of the Christian Service Program at the Prep; it also performs an invaluable service to the upper and lower classmen. Headed by Father Garrett Orr, S.J., the team takes homerooms away for a day of reflection, relaxation and recreation. The team, consisting of some twenty seniors, is prepared by Fr. Orr and Sr. Woody to discuss the important problems that face underclassmen every day. By discussing these problems not only do the underclassmen find an outlet for some of their experiences but the Seniors gain a new appreciation for their own experiences. The retreats, which run throughout the year, make up a very important part of spiritual life at the Prep.

SCIENCE CLUB

Led by their fearless leader Mr. Caulfield, this group is composed of the Prep's future Nobel Prize winners. Their interests in the various sciences are not satisfied by their work in the classroom alone. These students meet periodically after school to perform various experiments that demonstrate the fact that there are practical uses for those things that they have learned in class. Although they have gained the reputation of being one of the rowdier clubs in the school, these disciples of modern science have gained valuable experience in their field of interest.

WARGAMING CLUB

Now that it is finally set up, how do we begin?

The ever-popular Wargaming Club has had another great year. The club is in the process of regrouping and rebuilding, and is looking forward to a great future. Among its many attractions are the games of Advanced Dungeons and Dragons, Champions, Third Reich and Starfleet Battles. All are competently conducted by experienced players. "Who plays these games?" you may ask. Well, if you liked the movies Star Wars and Raiders of the Lost Ark or such T.V. shows as Star Trek and even the infamous Dr. Who, then you would probably enjoy these games, too. In fact, role playing games are sweeping the nation.

Student Government at the Prep, a somewhat interesting idea. In the spring of 1984, the Prep's Student Council was overhauled and elections followed. For the first time in the stay of the Class of '85, the elections were taken seriously and the concept of Student Council was given the chance to prove itself to the students and to the Prep community. The elections produced four very different and capable individuals. President Pat Dever, Vice-President Mike Broadhurst, Secretary John Piecyk and Treasurer Mike DeVlieger headed the efforts of this year's Council. This group of concerned officers, along with various class representatives, concerned themselves with a wide range of issues affecting the entire student body. Academic issues included Test-day cycles and exam weight. Issues on the lighter side included two mixers and the Hooters' contest.

Under the stewardship and moderation of Mr. Kendall B. Mattern, the Council has worked on reconstruction and has built new respect for the concept of Student Government. The legacy of the Class of '85 in Student Council is strong and will be with the Prep for years to come.

PREP MIXERS

This year, for the first time in recent memory, the Prep sponsored a mixer.

It was organized by a group of Juniors led by Franz Loeber '86, which formed Student Council's Mixer Committee.

The dances were held on December 1st and March 14 at the Campion Center of St. Joseph's University.

Several girls' schools were represented including Mt. Saint Joseph's Academy, Notre Dame Academy, Merion Mercy Academy, and of course the Prep guys came out en Masse.

Even though there were no refreshments, and only party tapes and a stereo for musical entertainment, the first mixer was so successful and such a good time was had by all, that the Student Council decided to hold another one.

The next Prep Mixer was held March 1st 1985, again in St. Joseph's Campion Center. The second mixer vastly surpassed the first in quality because this time there was soda, and music was provided by Primetime Entertainers, a professional disc jockey service. Again several girls' schools came, and again the Prepsters were well represented.

Due to the large financial success of these first two mixers, and noting how much fun they were, we hope to see them continued as a Prep activity for many years to come.

CHRONICLE YEARBOOK

Faced with creating a pictorial essay of high school life, a yearbook staff has to assemble a book which reflects in its pictures and words both the collective spirit and individuality of a class and of a student body. The staff began the year determined to produce a yearbook of which the school and its graduating class could be proud. The names and faces on its pages may change from year to year, but the tradition of the Chronicle remains, striving to capture the life and spirit of those who walk the Prep's halls.

Countless hours of work, arguments and compromise, along with copy, recopy and missed deadlines, sum up this year for the Chronicle staff as it struggled to put together the collective work of the Class of 1985. The greatest reward for a yearbook staff is the faces of the students as they look at the pictures and words bound within its covers. The smiles, the frowns and the watery eyes are all reflections of a successful yearbook. As memory-jarrer and time chronicler, a yearbook stops time and holds frozen on its pages a part of the lives of its readers.

On these pages is the best the Chronicle staff has to offer. It records on its pages the scholastic, athletic and social achievements of the past year, an abundance of which the Prep consistently supplies year to year. This is a book which has captured moments which will live in our minds forever.

So you don't heck the yearbook, eh?
